• Jessica Muller

www.jessicamuller.nl

Jessica Muller, upcoming artist, lives and works in The Netherlands. Muller's artwork deals with the craft of oilpainting and drawing. Creating out of the void, it is the playing with material, color and composition that fascinates her. Layer on layer, action and reaction. Searching for the absolute need to have paint on a certain spot, Muller creates form and anti-form, resulting in space(s) that may refer to mystic landscape.

• Fuse Green

www.myspace.com/fusegreen

Originally from North Carolina, this 28-year old artist uses his extensive music knowledge to infuse multiple styles into his design work. After publishing his first cartoon at the age of 16, Fuse moved to Atlanta to further his artistic career. While in Atlanta, Fuse worked on marketing campaigns for Coca-Cola, Sprite and Minute Maid. Fuse also contributed his design work to projects by KRS One and Public Enemy while developing his own independent apparel brand entitled Wheatbread.

In May 2006, he earned an MFA from School of Visual Arts and BA in 2001 from Columbia University. He has exhibited twice at Visual Arts Gallery, and the Visual Arts Gallery will present his work at the Affordable Art Fair. He has participated in group projects at Alona Kagan Gallery, -Scope NY, and the Sunday Salon hosted by John Connelly.

• Rene Lynch

My work explores that period of puberty that embodies pure spirit and an inchoate knowledge of power and vulnerability, when a child begins to break free and desires, like Alice in Wonderland, to see what is beyond the looking glass.

• Zilvinas Kempinas

Zilvinas Kempinas' site-specific installations combine an evocative employment of unusual materials such as video tape, with a sophisticated engagement with the way a viewer relates physically and optically to a work in space.

The pink triangle works, acrylic on canvas (36" X 48"), are part of a larger piece of civil disobedience performance art. The entire piece includes the artist not filing Federal income tax with the Internal Revenue Service. The artist is acting out of civil disobedience because the IRS does not recognize same sex couples or domestic partners who love one another, and it does not allow the same Federal tax benefits as married couples automatically receive.
